

NEGOTIATIONS TO END MEXICO ROW MAY BE RESUMED

It Now Seems up to Washington to Act so that Matter May Be Reopened

HUERTA PREFERENCES PEACE TO HAVING HOSTILITIES

That Friendly Relations Exist is Shown by Lind's Message Regarding People Killed in Explosion.

Paris, Aug. 21.—No confirmation can be obtained here of the report that Mexican Foreign Minister Gómez and other European capitals have made an offer to President Huerta to meet a new sum of $20,000,000. On the contrary, it is said, it was repudiated by the Banque De Paris Et Pays Bas, which took a leading part in the previous loan to the Mexican government. The story is also discredited by the bank's house of Lazard Frères.

The French Foreign office, it appears, is continuing to insist on the attitude that it would be unwise for French bankers to lend money to the Mexican government until the United States government has recognized the Huerta administration.

While French bankers are not wholly satisfied with the Mexican administration, it is urged for them to follow advice of this sort. Mexico City, Aug. 21.—Further negotiations leading to a peaceful solution of the Mexican crisis will follow if Provisional President Huerta's rejection of President Wilson's proposal as submitted by his personal representative, John Lind, will not appear to deprive us of Washington if the United States government is willing to re-open the question there is every reason to believe that the Mexican government will do so.

Pedro Gómez, the foreign minister, in a statement issued Tuesday night, said that the negotiations between the United States and the Mexican government had not been entirely broken off, but that they were being continued confidentially. This communiqué was made by the representative of the Mexican newspapers for publication yesterday morning. It was the first news of the dispute given to the public since the local press since Monday morning.

Despite Foreign Minister Gómez's statement, however, it is known that Mexico's reply to the United States was couched in diplomatic language, and a definite rejection of President Wilson's proposal, as presented by John Lind.

The United States government, as it has known now since then the negotiations, it is considered, will be closed. What the Mexican government may do appears largely a psychological problem.

Comments in Lead.

The comments made by Arsenio Urriola, minister of the interior, on Monday night and subsequently given official denial both by Foreign Minister Gómez and the Mexican ambassador, the former charge d'affaires of the United States government, had been given until midnight of Tuesday last to recognize the Huerta administration, but the conservative element appears to have won the upper hand.

The element in the country which is showing a tendency to come friendly with President Wilson's personal representative, Mr. Lind, and it is even reported on good authority that the United States government is likely to re-open the negotiations. Governor Lind is awaiting instructions from Washington. He is optimistic and believes there is a good possibility that the Mexican government may yet elect to entertain the peace proposals rather than the alternative, a recognition of the Huerta administration, because of the two governments are friendly.

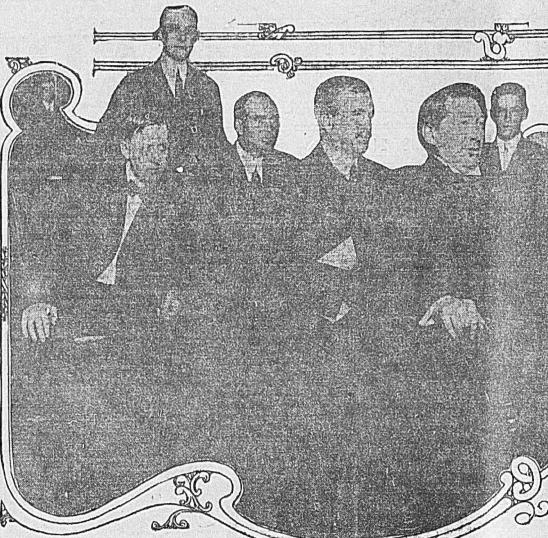

That the personal relations between President Wilson's emissary and the members of the government here are friendly are indicated in the action of Mr. Lind in sending to the Mexican ambassador a copy of his complaint on account of the loss of life in the explosion at Tacubaya a suburb of the capital, when nearly 100 persons were killed in the accident.

In a general way, Huerta places the blame for Mexico's civil war upon the United States. He insists that had it not been for President Wilson's refusal to recognize his administration it would long ago have suppressed the rebellion, and even now he asserts, the United States indirectly enabled him to remain in power in a way that would not have been possible.

IMPEACHMENT OF FEDERAL JUDGE IS BEING CONSIDERED

House Judiciary Committee Goes Over Charges Brought Against Speer.

ACCUSED OF ALLOWING WASTING OF ESTATES

Also Said to Have Rendered Judgments in Cases Where His Son-in-law Was Financially Interested.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Charges which if sustained might lead to the impeachment of another federal judge will be made against Federal Judge Speer of the Fifth Georgia circuit in papers considered yesterday in a carefully arranged session of the house judiciary committee.

The committee had before it the report of an investigation of Judge Speer's conduct by Special Examiner George C. Kruger, presented by the house of justice along with numerous affidavits and other exhibits.

No action was taken, the committee adjourning until Friday, and each member pledging himself to discuss the charges in the meantime.

It is possible that at Friday's session of the house, the committee will be adjourned with a view to the taking of a final plenary action by the committee in the event it should determine to report the charges to the house other favorably.

Diggs Found Guilty on Four Counts in Indictment

Sentence Will be Pronounced on September 2. Naming Penalty for Offence Under the Mann White Slave Law.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—In closing his defense, Maury Diggs, former state architect of California, said that he was not delayed by political influence, and he sent his resignation in an open letter to President Wilson.

Sequel will be pronounced September 2. Judge Van Fleet will be seated at $5,000 on each count, making $20,000 in all. P. Diggs, attorney of state, and delegations to the American, Canadian and British delegations, the last night of the trial, both were ready with bonds in the amount named, and United States Commissioner Kruger was ready to accept them.

Counsel for the defense announced that they would appeal to the highest court in the land and asked for 10 days in which to petition for a writ of error in the United States circuit court of appeals.

The case was national notoriety when United States Attorney John McNab resigned charging that the trial had been delayed by political influence, and he sent his resignation in an open letter to President Wilson.

Partial contents of Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary

Based upon Noah Webster's Dictionary, revised and brought UP TO DATE in accordance with the most eminent English and American authorities on spelling, pronunciation and definition, and especially designed to meet the popular demand for a CONVENIENT, complete and RELIABLE Dictionary.

It contains all the words of the English language that are not peculiarly appropriate to a Dictionary of technical terms; it gives the spelling and pronunciation of Plurals, and indicates the use of capital and small letters in writing every word in the vocabulary; it gives the Past Tense and the Particles of all verbs not regularly formed by the addition of -d, -ed, and -ing; the Pronunciation of each word is plainly indicated by phonetic spelling; the Definitions, comprehensive, yet concise, are accurate and reliable.

Preceding the Dictionary proper will be found a treatise on ABBREVIATIONS of the Parts of Speech and their grammatical signification. Also a discourse on the Origin, Composition and Derivation of the English Language.

The ANALYSIS of the "Principles of Grammar" will fill a long-felt want in promoting the correctness of speech, both spoken and written.

Under the head of "SIMPLIFIED SPELLING" will be found the rules as adopted by the SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD, and giving a complete list of 300 words spelled in two ways, of which the Board says, "Choose the simpler spelling."

Finally is given a complete KEY TO PRONUNCIATION.

Surprising results are obtained in looking up the Spelling, Pronunciation and Definition of the

which have been incorporated into our language only yesterday, as it were. For instance: Aviator, Bi-plane, Brainstorm, Cordite, Okapi, Carburettor, Dictograph, Hookworm, Krypton, Lettergram, Nickelodeon, Oslerize, Stovaline, Taxicab, Zemule, Hangar, Equilibrator, etc.

AVERAGE NOVICE IN HEAVYWEIGHT PRIZE RING NOT MUCH GOOD

Kid McCoy Declares That Likely Looking Youngsters in Big Game Are Scarce—Ordinary Man of Very Little Account.

"The average novice heavyweight of the old days isn't amount to much," said Tom McCoy, the well-known boxer who has a crowd of friends of his own. "You wanted to know why he didn't get hold of some likely young fellow and start him on the road for championships."

"The great trouble is that most young athletes are hurried into the ring with insufficient ideas of what may be expected of them. Your novice has such an indefinite idea of the game of fistfights that he early appears ridiculous and later becomes set in a rut that he never can leave, a hard and unattractive puppie style. If I could find a young fellow who would be good to me I would take him in hand, but up to date none of them appear to me."

"The average hot boxer around just enough to pick up a lot of place-holding tricks and it is next to impossible to break him of his traits. Few of them have any idea of how to hit out straight, the average style, conceded because this or that star won his lights with lightning knockout having complete possession of them."

Always Hurt Hands

"For the last year, you may notice that nearly all of the real, real champions for heavyweight championships have sold out without suffering injury to their hands. They imagine that it is easy to bring out hand, but the fault doesn't lie in the hand, but in the trouble they have in holding their hands together in the way that they bandage their hands. They generally wrap a tape around the knuckles and through the thumb joint. As far as my experience goes I think that tape down to his shoulder. He straightened up his left arm when he was over. A right-hand swing from McCoy had connected squarely with O'Gorman's jaw, sending him down and out.

His right emotion was too deep for words. He staggered unconvincingly in the endeavor to discern the source of sufficient virulence. Heave it up, waved his hand in mute protest, and joined the crowd of spectators who gathered about the crowd who were gathered suddenly out of the building.

About 16 years ago Kid McCoy, a well-known newspaper man of Chicago, was cutting a wide swath in the amateur ranks of New York. At the close of his amateur career in which he had won first honors, his second, Jerry Barnett, a professional known as the "Pride of Peil Beach," had bought Young Griffon and George Dixie. In his day, called the Kid to this day.

Using the stiff forearm as a club to knock out an adversary was always an effective trick of McCoy's. The really efficient way to do is wrap the tape around the wrist and smash away with the right hand, so that he knocked his right hand silly. McCoy, the latter said that at first he felt as though the fox one had been snuffed as though he had been buried in a hole. It was nothing but a bad cold, but he was nothing but a bad cold. The old tape trick has been a great buster unpleasant for both the Irish and the Akron giant.

Have it Easy Now

The fight fans who sit at ease at the ringside of a modern athletic club have good reason to congratulate themselves. They are the ones who have witnessed one fight night of a remarkably cold winter when he traveled to the city of Nessieville in Indiana to witness a combat between Harry Myer, the Streator Cyclone, and Harry Gillmore, the then lightweight champion of Canada.

When the crowd started for the fight, the crowd left Chicago a little after 7 o'clock in the evening. It proceeded at an excruciatingly slow pace and there was no fire in the engine.

The cold, frozen spectators around and shivered dimly under the glow of some small lanterns which cast a dim, half-light on the scene. It was after 1 o'clock when the men stepped to the center of the ring and time was called.

Then it was over. At the time of the fight, the late Charles Seymour, who was in attendance to report the scrap for a Chicago paper, stooped delights of a pipe and can of beer so far forgot himself as to lose his balance and come tumbling down on the sidewalk. The crowd, however, in their carousals struck the pavement with a resounding splash, the male and female spectators united their lungs in one shrill yell of terror and fled from the scene in terror with a frantic speed. Left to himself, the Kid sized suddenly at the remains of the colored victim.

Made Good All Right
"This," he mused sullenly, "is what comes of making good too well. If I'd only known he was going to flop like that I'd have collected in advance. And now he's gone. I'm not going to even get out the 10. This thing of too much realism don't pay."

PLEASURE IN A BEVER
Say, pop, don't you remember in the bygone days of your sonorous carefree youth how you crawled unashamedly through the garret or village church to have a game of cards with one or two of your best friends—did because you dared not play openly and because hiding was the best way to get away with it? Well, some fellow—grown up, mind you—was caught playing poker for money hidden in a Pittsburgh sewer the other day. The point of interest? So says sub for the topper, later 'tis to the Joints' joints. The "hot-smoking" outfit, an spreads yourself about the bloody murders as comes off on every inch of the ground. Are you wise?"

Great Good Could Do It.

The Kid, who was in possession of the desired wisdom, had the line appointed he met the party of
